

FLEXIBILITY IN REBUILDING AMERICAN FISHERIES ACT

February 8, 2010 - When U.S. Rep. Frank Pallone, Jr. (D-NJ) first introduced the Flexibility in Rebuilding American Fisheries Act of 2008 (HR 5425) in the 110th Congress to provide "limited flexibility" into federal fisheries management, recreational fishing groups and industry members from around the country signed on to help support the fight for recreational anglers and continued access to healthy fisheries.

While hardline conservation groups were helping handcuff fisheries managers through implementation of arbitrary timelines and restrictions, recreational fishermen around the country were uniting to protect their rights and help support the Flexibility in Rebuilding American Fisheries Act, in an effort to help keep fishing communities and local fisheries healthy and sustainable for future generations.

Originally introduced in the 110th Congress, HR 5425 had 19 cosponsors and gained wide support from over 100 different regional and national organizations, including fishing groups, marine industry associations, and fishery management councils. When Congress returned to session following the summer recess, representatives immediately became entrenched with the volatile economic climate in advance of the presidential election, and HR 5425 didn't garner the attention it deserved.

Realizing that fisheries closures would continue without congressional intervention, in March of 2010 Rep. Pallone and fellow Representatives John Adler (D-NJ), Henry Brown, Jr. (R-SC), Ginny Brown-Waite (R-FL), Barney Frank (D-MA), Walter B. Jones, Jr. (R-NC), Patrick Kennedy (D-RI), Frank LoBiondo (R-NJ), Mike McIntyre (D-NC), Michael Michaud (D-ME), Solomon Ortiz (D-TX) and John Tierney (D-MA), reintroduced the Flexibility in Rebuilding American Fisheries Act of 2009 (HR 1584). Twenty-five co-sponsors have pledged support to HR 1584 thus far, including Rob Andrews (D-NJ), Timothy Bishop (D-NY), Allen Boyd (D-FL), Joe Courtney (D-CT), Peter King (R-NY), Rob Wittman (R-VA), Jo

Bonner (R-AL), John Mica (R-FL), Ileana Ros-Lehtinen (R-FL), Carol Shea-Porter (D-NH), Clifford Stearns (R-FL), Donna Christensen (D-VI), Gus Bilirakis (R-FL), and Ander Crenshaw (R-FL).

On June 11, 2009, the Flexibility in Rebuilding American Fisheries Act of 2009 received another boost of support when Senator Charles Schumer (D-NY) “A powerful Democratic senator from New York, has cast his line into the water to protect the fishing industry in the region from the oppressive requirements in the Magnuson-Stevens Fishery Conservation and Management Act (Asbury Park Press, 6/18/09). As of mid-February of 2010, S1255 boasts the bi-partisan support of two coastal cosponsors, Senator Kirsten Gillbrand (D-NY) and Senator George LeMieux (R-FL).

“Schumer has introduced legislation in the Senate, authored in the House by Rep. Frank Pallone Jr. (D-NJ), that will bring much-needed modernization and flexibility to the outdated federal rules that are killing Americas recreational fishing industry,” writes Ken Moran in the New York Post.

Al Ristori, Conservation Editor of The Fisherman Magazine writes “Anglers should urge their senators and representatives to cosponsor these bills, as a broad show of support will be necessary in order to overcome the expected objections of some environmental groups.”

Dale Timmons of the Coastal-Fisherman Magazine based in Ocean City, MD said “I hope Schumer and the RFA are successful in getting the necessary changes passed.”

To be “successful” with this important legislation, the RFA needs to share your public support. Rep. Pallone and Sen. Schumer are two of the most influential legislators in Washington today, and each has an impeccable record when it comes to supporting environmentally sound legislation. Let these legislators know that you support their efforts, on behalf of the 8-1/2 million recreational saltwater anglers in America, and the recreational industry that caters their needs.

If you don't see your name listed below, call the RFA, and have your company or organization added to the list of those who support this important legislation to reintroduce "limited flexibility" into federal fisheries management, to allow recreational anglers continued access to healthy fisheries, and to join the RFA mission to safeguard the rights of saltwater anglers, protect marine, boat and tackle industry jobs, and ensure the long-term sustainability of our Nation's saltwater fisheries.
